

Question after question, Mark grew up.
The time came for him to join a real pirate crew.

'I will hire you,' said Captain Joe.
'But I wonder—without a hook, how will you climb up the mast and learn to sail?
How will you dig for treasure? How will you fight
our pirate enemies?'

He didn't know the answer.
But like all other pirates, he wanted an adventure,
and so he stepped on board.